Preamble

What makes us successful?

Our success is not solely defined by our products.

Success demands more. It hinges on the unwavering integrity and accountability of every individual, fostering trust, credibility, and reliability. The path RB-Messwerkzeuge GmbH takes to achieve success is just as pivotal as the success itself.

Our code of conduct encompasses adherence to legal requirements and the implementation of necessary conduct standards. Our code of conduct is the demand we set ourselves and at the same time our commitment to the world outside.

It provides an overview of our values and the behavioral requirements for our employees, which are further specified by internal guidelines when necessary. The topics covered range from quality and standards of cooperation to integrity in business practices and corporate responsibility. The guidelines derived from these provide the necessary security and orientation in our everyday work.

However, this orientation alone is not sufficient. The code of conduct must be actively lived by the leaders to ensure that employees know and understand the requirements.

Only by consistently behaving ethically can we ensure our long-term success and viability. The code is therefore binding for all divisions and employees of RB-Messwerkzeuge GmbH.

Each of us can contribute to success by living the code of conduct.
